

Bryan Mazzarello is the creative director at Mazzarello Media and Arts, a husband and wife graphic design studio in Oakland, CA. As a professional graphic designer for more than 10 years, Bryan specializes in brand identity and web design for small businesses and non-profits.

Prior to running his own design studio, Bryan worked eight years as an award winning, in-house graphic designer. He was the art director at an eco-luxury brand, Organic Bouquet, creating e-commerce websites, directing product photo shoots, and developing package design.

Bryan has designed for top brands such as Rodale Press, Harry and David, Network for Good, Gardener's Supply Company, Intel Labs Berkeley, Microsoft Partners in Learning, and the Oakland Athletics.

Bryan is passionate for his local community and the environment and that extends into his business practices, from the ink and paper he uses, businesses he partners with and to the non-profits he supports. In fact, he has been interviewed by Joel Makower for grist.org on green and sustainable printing and interviewed by Heather Holmes on KTVU Channel 2 about his passion for Oakland.

Bryan received a B.S. in Art with an emphasis in Graphic Design from Biola University.

Bryan and his wife Stephanie work and live in Oakland, California with their 17 pound cat Baz.
